Draft Tests To Be Given Here Soon

The deadline to apply for college qualification tests is drawing near. Midnight, November 5, is the deadline to have the applications postmarked.

Students eligible to take the tests may pick up the applications at any selective service center.

The test will be given here at Hartnell College Thursday, December 13. Students must make a score of 70 per cent on the test to maintain a college draft deferment.

Additional information may be obtained from Mr. Lemos, Mr. Girdner, or from the local draft board.

Home Ec Classes Take Field Trip

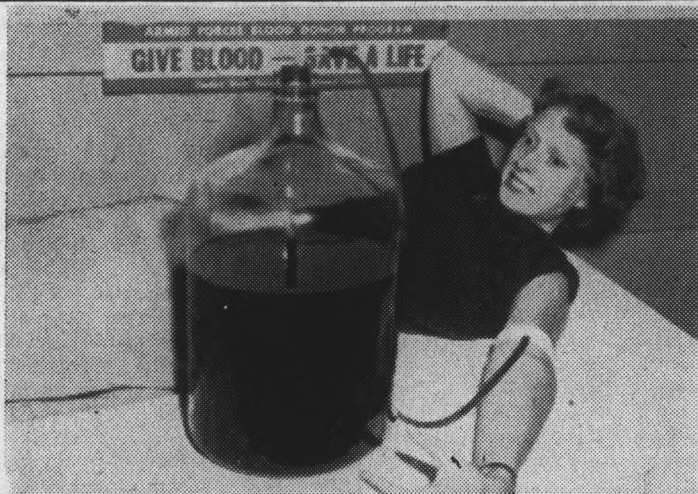

The home economics classes took advantage of community resources last week to supplement classroom instruction. The foods class visited the Alisal Frozen Food Lockers for a demonstration on wrapping and freezing meat. A cutting demonstration on half a beef helped the girls become more familiar with different meat cuts. Previous to this, the class had a lesson on food preservation.

Students in the personality development class, jointly instructed by Misses June Handley and Mildred Novotny, were privileged to hear a guest speaker last week. Mrs. Boyd, the guest speaker, is an authority on personality development.

Her speech centered on the achievement of gracefulness in sitting, standing and walking at all times. Mrs. Boyd demonstrated how poise and grace in body movements can improve the attractiveness of one's appearance.

The personality lecturer has had considerable experience in professional modeling in San Francisco. Mrs. Boyd has spent a great deal of time studying the field of modeling.

Last Thursday the home furnishings class enjoyed a trip to San Benancio Canyon where they had an opportunity to visit three well-planned and decorated homes. All the homes visited were planned by the homemakers themselves. This was an inspiration to the girls for it shows that practically anyone is capable of decorating.

Anything you can do, I can do better! Or so the facial expression of our photographic subject seems to indicate as she fearlessly contributes the first five gallons of Hartnell blood to the armed forces donor program. The supersaturated young dispenser is named Annabeth Bird, and she hasn't had a cold since venturing into Chualar grammar school. You, too are eligible to contribute a few drops for the fellows who need it, come November 5, at the Rec center. Details about this legal method of cutting classes are included in the story below.

Rooters Attention!

Today at 3 o'clock will be the last chance to sign up for the rooters' bus to the Contra Costa game. The price for the trip to Martinez where the game is being played is $2.00.

Students are urged to make reservations in the main office before the deadline.

Johnny Arreola New President Of Foreign Group

Juanito "Johnny" Arreola, Jr., has been elected president of the International Club. Johnny, who is from the Philippines, was elected during a club meeting last week.

Other newly elected club officers are: Nkemka Obieze of Liberia, vice-president; Darlene Clizbe, secretary; Nancy Li of China, treasurer; and Lutz Graf zu Muenster of Germany, Interclub Council representative. Darleen Clizbe was elected homecoming queen candidate.

President Johnny Arreola has announced that the club's first dance will be held November 17 after the College of Marin football game.

Guests are cordially invited to attend International Club meetings.

HELP ! ! ! !

Students are still needed to assist in the student lounge project. Any student adept at upholstering, painting, or similar work, is asked to contact Miss Mildred Novotny of the home economics department who is directing work on the lounge.

Give Blood November 5

Appointments may now be made in the main office to give blood for Korea on November 5. It will be necessary for students between the ages of 18 and 21 years to have a release form signed by their parents. The release forms may be secured from the main office; Ken Van Cleave, chairman of the local drive; or from the local Red Cross chapter.

Any person over 18 years old, in good health, and weighing more than 115 pounds is eligible to give blood.

Students who are giving blood will be excused from classes and transportation in the Red Cross station wagon will be provided.

Blood Drive Chairman Ken Van Cleave urges all eligible students to make their appointments now to give blood and show the people of Salinas Valley that Hartnell College will back a worthy cause.

Drama Students Meet Tuesday

Delta Psi Omega, the dramatic organization of Hartnell College, has announced that it will hold meetings on the third Tuesday of each month, and that any and all persons interested in dramatics are invited to attend rather than official members only.

Mr. Harold Ulrici, advisor to the group, said that he has two purposes in bringing non-members to the meetings.

Queen Contest Rules Announced

Rules for conducting the Homecoming queen contest have been drawn up by the executive committee of Alpha Gamma Sigma which annually sponsors the queen contest. Interclub Council has approved the regulations.

1. Any woman presently enrolled as a student in Hartnell

College and who is a member of the Associated Students and who is passing in at least 10 units of work is eligible to become a candidate.

2. Each class and officially organized club belonging to the Interclub Council is requested to nominate a candidate.

3. Nominations must be registered in the office of Dr. Luella Hall (Alpha Gamma Sigma sponsor) in order to be official. The first organization reporting a nominee is entitled to sponsor that candidate.

4. All campaign material is to be approved by Doctor Hall before being posted. A maximum of three posters will be permitted for each organization.

5. All nominations must be registered by 4 o'clock on October 26.

6. The candidates will be introduced at the assembly on November 2.

7. The primary election will be held on November 5. At this time five of the candidates will be chosen to be princesses.

8. The final election will be held on November 8. At this time one of the five princesses will be selected for queen.

9. The identity of the queen will be revealed at coronation time, the date of which will be announced later.

10. All members of the Associated Students are eligible to vote.

Delegates Go To Section Meeting At Stockton J.C.

Seven Hartnell College student body officers attended the northern section of the California Junior College Student Government Conference at Stockton last Saturday. The purpose of this meeting was to help formulate an agenda for the C.J.C.S.C., to be held at Fresno, November 15, 16, and 17.

Representing Hartnell were Bob Adams, Bob Balkow, Betty Cunningham, Jim Hitchcock, George Jackson, Freda Ledford, and Sally McAnaney. Advisor Jerry Girdner accompanied the delegation. Host school was Stockton College.

Delegates took part in informal workshops in finance, athletics, student affairs, social activities, and student publications. From these workshops came resolutions to have certain items placed on the agenda for the Fresno conclave.

The state conferences are held semiannually; and, preparatory to each, sectional meetings are held in the southern, central, and northern sections of the state. Saturday's conference was of special importance to the Hartnell group because it will host the spring sectional conference.

Distributive Expert Speaks on Retailing

Mr. A. C. Pinching, for many years a district supervisor for Safeway Stores, spoke to the marketing class last Friday. Mr. Pinching gave the class the benefit of his 30 years' experience in the retail field. He told of the operation of large chain and supermarket organizations, and stressed the many factors for which the management must be responsible.

Mr. Pinching pointed out that it does not take great ability to be a clerk, but that those who seek to advance must have the ability to manage.

Peavys In Performance At Pacific Clinic

Mr. Peavy, gymnastic coach, and son, Bob, took part in a gymnastic clinic, October 6, at College of Pacific in Stockton. The purpose of the clinic was to create interest throughout colleges and high schools in gymnastic activities.

The Peavys put on a demonstration of doubles in tumbling. The exhibit included apparatus tumbling, ground tumbling, and work on the trampoline.

Girls Get Credit For office Work

Many students who are enrolled in the co-operative - office practice course at Hartnell College are being given an opportunity to attend college, gain experience in office work, and receive credit for the course as well as pay.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Anne Harper, students are being trained in typing, shorthand, and other office procedures. Mrs. Harper feels the students find the course highly beneficial.

Assignments are on a semester basis, six units credit is granted, and the student's work is checked every six weeks by Mrs. Harper who contacts the employer to see how the student worker is coming along. On the basis of an employer's report the student worker is graded at the end of the semester.

This semester 28 students have been selected to work in various Salinas Valley offices.

Employed as clerk-typists are Barbara Dunn, Salinas, Bardin School; Dorothy Rodgers, Salinas, Roosevelt School; Carolyn Charlson, Aptos, Roosevelt school; Shirley Nason, Salinas, Lincoln School; Patricia White, Salinas, Lincoln School; Wanda Yates, Soledad, Sherwood School; Mary Anne de-

NOT SO QUIET, PLEASE!

What happened to our rooting section last Saturday night? The gaboon was at stake but still the loudest sound to be heard was that of a small boy yelling, "Peanuts, fresh roasted peanuts!"

The apathy and complete relaxation displayed by the "rooting" section could never have given the team any incentive to fight for ye olde gaboon.

Our yell leaders get out there and work hard to keep the rooting section on the ball. In return for their efforts they get only the slightest display of school spirit.

The next home game is the Homecoming game. At that game above all Hartnell College must show its true spirit.

Let's all get out there and make some noise: If you feel that your lungs can't take the strain of yelling, bring a cowbell or just stamp your feet.

Hartnell P.E. Majors Aid Instructors At Washington Junior High

Physical education instructors at Washington Junior High School are being aided in their teaching of the high school pupils this semester by eleven students from Hartnell College. The eleven college students, three girls and eight boys, are majoring in physical education at Hartnell.

The three girls are Phyllis Nutter, Betty Westphal, and Beverly Tiedtke. This group of co-eds is the first such group from Hartnell College to help out at the junior high school, reported Miss Betty Gulate, Salinas, Salinas high school library.

Stenographer-typists include Patricia Nielsen, Salinas, attendance department of Salinas schools; May Osugi, Salinas, audiovisual department of Salinas schools; Judy Ross, Soquel, Hartnell office; Rosemary Toshikian, Salinas, Hartnell College office; Marlene Hanes, Salinas, office of Attorney Louis Moore; Nancy Ichikawa, Salinas, office of the Rev. Richard Coombs, St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

George Anderson, Santa Cruz, bookkeeper in Hartnell finance office; Tom Grant, Aromas, bookkeeper in Hartnell finance office; LaVonne Neuenfeldt, Salinas, typist-receptionist, office of Dr. Bard Daughters; Dorothy Robinson, Salinas, stenographer and bookkeeper, Commercial Truck Exchange; Beverly Hanson, Salinas, stenographer-bookkeeper, Joe L. Edwards Insurance Company; Marjorie Conine, Salinas, cookkeeper, Mission Laundry office; Clayton Loss, Watsonville, bookkeeper, W. H. Scovil accounting office; Jeannine Craddock, Salinas, teletype trainee, Western Union company.

June Handley, women's physical education instructor. They receive one unit of college credit toward their graduation for every three hours of instruction at the junior high school.

All three girls are P.E. majors and expect to become full-time physical education instructors at some high school or college in the state after they complete their college studies.

Male students from Hartnell College have been receiving the practical experience in teaching physical education at the Washington Junior High School for several years, said Ed Adams, men's physical instructor.

Most of the boys work at the junior high school track meets and basketball games every year for part of their two-unit credit, said Adams. They officiate at basketball games and help supervise the track events at the high school meets.

This extra work is in addition to the regular assignments the boys have five days a week at the high school.

The eight boys act as individual group instructors in the physical education classes at the junior high school under the guidance of the Washington Junior High School coaches, Fred Orem and Roger Joust.

In addition to regular calisthenics instruction they teach the high school boys the various shots, plays and rules of the many games in which the students participate.

The assistant gym instructors receive two units for all this work and usually have to officiate at the intramural basketball games at the college to fill out their 6-hour instruction requirement for the credit.

Physical education majors are Wayne Crook, Doug Garrett, Bob Heinzen, Mike Melnyk, Jess Sackett, Bob Steinbach, Elmer Valli, Tom Welch, and Ed Weber.

High Hills Of Monterey County

By HAROLD CAHILL

The Monterey district of the Los Padres Forest lies within the Mediterranean climate zone. A region of wet, cool winters and hot, dry summers. The temperature and precipitation variation between the east and west sides of the forest are tremendous. A classic example of this variation is that between the Arroyo Seco and Big Sur areas.

Big Sur, which is located about 27 miles south of Carmel, has an annual average rainfall of 40 inches. The temperature in the summer ranges from 60 degrees to 80 degrees, rarely going above this mark. Seldom during July does the temperature go over 60 degrees because of the coastal fogs. Although once the 2,000-foot level is reached on the coast the fog belt is eliminated. In this region the temperature compares to the east side of the forest but is slightly cooler. The humidity on the coast varies with the fog but it is still higher than the east side even with absence of the fog. The average humidity for Big Sur last July was about 68 per cent. The best sunny weather on the coast is in September and October when the coastal fog tapers off.

Arroyo Seco which is 17 miles west of Soledad has an annual precipitation of 18 inches. The temperature occasional skyrockets from 110 to 120 degrees, but the average temperature is 80 to 100 degrees. The relative humidity averages between 10 and 20 per cent.

The reasons for the extreme variations in rainfall are easily explained. On the coast the mountains rise to an abrupt 3,500-foot level and as storms bearing moisture move eastward, the clouds are elevated and cooled. When cooled the clouds lose their ability to hold moisture and it rains. Thus the heavier amounts of rain are shed on the coastal side and the remaining moisture is available for the east side.

South of Big Sur about 40 miles is Solomon Creek, which has a similar climate except the average annual rainfall decreases to 25 inches. Northeastward of this station across the coast ridge is Hunter Liggett where the precipitation rate again dips to 18 inches and the climate corresponds to that of Arroyo Seco.

The wettest spot in Monterey County is located at Cold Springs which is nine miles south of the Post ranch on the coast ridge road. A rainfall gauge was placed there by the U.S. Forest Service in 1939 when 160 inches of rain were recorded. The rain gauge measures 150 inches but because the road is a quagmire during the winter it isn't checked regularly. In 1939 when this huge amount of moisture was measured the gauge had run over. The reason for tremendous rainfall at this locality may be attributed to the high ridges around the area which forms a "U" shape. The opening of the "U" faces the ocean. Cold Springs is elevated to 3,200 feet. Proving that the area receives enormous amounts of precipitation are three perpetual streams arising from this general area. They are Logwood, Cisco and Pick creeks, which are tributaries to the Big Sur River.

Library Offers New Best-Sellers

By JOYCE HODGE

Due to the good attendance at Hartnell College Library, it has been announced that it will continue to remain open Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Several hundred new books have been added to the library in the past few weeks. A large portion of the fall order usually consists of the fiction and popular nonfiction books being read throughout the country and many are now ready for general circulation.

One of the most unusual books to reach the top of the best seller list is Rachel Carson "The Sea Around Us. Based on geological evidence, this book is a study of the processes that formed the earth, the moon and the oceans. The book is written in an easy and fluent style in terms that anyone can understand. It's a perfect companion book to ever-popular "Kon-Tiki," by Thor Heyerdahl, also available in the library.

Beginning where the Kon-Tiki's voyage ended, James Michener's "Return to Paradise" is a wonderful collection which alternates a chatty, lively, factual introduction to an area with a short story which begins with the theme of the factual sketch.

Stories of the sea are currently topping the best seller lists and readers of "The Caine Mutiny" by Herman Wouk will understand why. The story traces the career of Willy Kieth, Princeton graduate, from midshipman to captain of an ancient minesweeper, the Caine, as well as his love affair with a pretty nightclub singer.

Other titles among the recent fiction received include: "The Hunter," by James Oldridge; "Troubled Air," by Irwin Shaw; "The Witchdiggers," by Jessamyn West; "This Is the Hour," by Lion Feuchtwanger; and "Melville Goodwin, U.S.A.," by John Marquand.

Most of the books purchased for the library are, of course, in the nonfiction group. Especially valuable additions to the reference section include the new "Collier's Encyclopedia," the "Dictionary of Americanism," and the "American Oxford Atlas." All three are new first editions and not merely revisions of older editions.

In the lighter vein, you might try "Schnozzola, the Story of Jimmy Durante," by Gene Fowler; "Harem Scarem," by Rosemary Tayler; and a small but meaty little volume called, "How to Be Happy Though drafted."

Protestants To Attend Luncheon

Protestant students of Hartnell College are invited to attend a meeting of the Westminster Club Tuesday, October 30, in the club room of the Presbyterian Church in Mission Park, Salinas, announces Miss Faith Fraser, club advisor.

Dessert and transportation will be provided, but students must bring their own lunches. Those wishing to attend should notify the committee members, whose names will be posted on the main bulletin board, for reservations.

Westminster Club has been in existence for 12 years. "It is the only club approved by the Ministerial Association of Salinas," says Miss Fraser.

Food and Clothing Drive for Korea

Members of Canterbury Club heard the Rev. Richard Coombs of Salinas deliver the first in a series of talks on the "Church Year" last Tuesday in the home economics living room.

The Reverend Coombs introduced as his guest the Reverend Mr. Politzer, vicar of St. George's Mission in Alisal.

The organization has designated as its humanitarian project for this year the sending of food and clothing to Korea. The campaign for these items will start immediately. Dr. B. L. Borough stated that "any member of the student body is invited to contribute to this project. The tinned or dried food will

The parade for Homecoming Day has been cancelled by the Interclub Council, and in its place an open house will be held at the college from 1 o'clock until late in the afternoon of Saturday, November 10.

Only one float will be made for the day, by Alpha Gamma Sigma. Ray Dyer, Interclub Council president, announced that buses will be run to various towns for the convenience of students who wish to make use of the facilities.

Homecoming Co-ordinator John Lew announced that the student lounge will be opened on that day, and students from various organizations will be needed to help as escorts, and with other entertaining activities during the festivities. Also revealed was the fact that the coronation of the queen would be held on Saturday afternoon.

The homecoming game with the San Jose State Reserves will start at 8 o'clock, and immediately after the final gun has sounded students and alumni will prepare to rush to the Hartnell College gym where the dance will be held as a happy conclusion to the day.

be gladly accepted, and any clothes which are cleaned. This requirement is necessary to pass custom inspections."

Hot apple pie and coffee were served to those attending.

A&M to Get New Buildings

New class rooms will be built this semester for the students at Hartnell A. and M., reported Mr. Lyman Fowler, A. and M. director. The problem of limited classroom space on the 260-acre school farm is becoming acute, he said. At the present time many of the classes meet in the office for lectures.

Arthur Carlsen, carpentry instructor at the A. and M., and his carpentry and woodworking classes will construct the class rooms as soon as the blueprints are received. The blueprints have to pass state approval before construction can begin.

Few Teen-Agers Called Into Army

"Never has a teenager been inducted during the 16 months of the Korean War," announced Colonel Kenneth H. Leitch, State Selective Service director, in a story appearing in the San Francisco Chronicle, October 18, 1951.

Contrary to this statement, Jerome McCabe, a Hartnell student, was drafted in January of 1950 while only 18 years and one month old. President John Lemos revealed that McCabe was not the only teenager from Hartnell to be drafted.

The California draft boards, asserted Jack Foisie, writer of the Chronicle article, have been meeting their quotas by calling on the 21-25 age groups. Teen-age registrants now classified as 4-A will be 21 or 22 before being drafted, providing quotas remain about the same.

Approximately 56 students have withdrawn from Hartnell since September, 1950, to enter the service. This figure does not include those entering the service during the summer months or between semesters.

CAMPUSOLOGY

By RAJAH

The unsung heroes, the men behind the scenes (and it's a good thing they stay there) are people like the backstage workers of the Hartnell drama department. The stage crew for "The Two Mrs. Carrolls" consists of Mr. "U" (Harold H. Ulrici); James Carlisle, stage manager; Mr. "U," and Charles "Chick" Chase, art work; and Mr. "U." Mr. "U" also lends a hand at times!

PLUG DEPARTMENT: Men's Club Prexy Jack Albert has averred that his masculine group has a transportation system set up with the main office. At present this department consists of one vehicle in working order, and two inoperative ones. The vehicles are bicycles, and are rented for 10 cents an hour.

The only way to raise money to repair the latter bikes is to put the first bike to work. Thoughts for making good use of the good bike are to charge double for people who ride that way; and the topper is a thought, and no more yet, that the person who uses the bike most before Homecoming Day will be privileged to ride the queen around the stadium once.

Ken Van Cleave is still rolling his soulful eyes like a cocker spaniel, but in truth there is the heart of a leech behind this timid mask. This deceptive looking fellow has nothing on his mind at all times except how to draw a pint of blood out of each likely looking individual on campus. Look out! This is a warning that the only way to escape his tenacity is to sign up for the Hartnell College Blood Drive NOW!

Menlo Oaks Bowl Over Panthers 30 to 7

Pederson's Passing Eye Too Sharp For Hartnell

A pennant-hungry mob of Menlo Oaks coasted to their fourth consecutive victory, a 30-to-7 win over the fumbling Panthers of Hartnell, Saturday, October 20, at the Salinas Union High School Stadium.

A sparse crowd of 1,000 shivered through the cold while the Oaks struck twice in the first and once in the second and final quarters to capture their first league victory and the valued relic of the rival colleges—ye olde ga-boon.

Although the Harts flashed moments of brilliance, they were not as consistent as the spirited Menlo eleven. The Stanford farm club had everything to win—and they did—shooting for the high hand of the newly formed Northern California Junior College Conference.

The Panthers started fast, surprising the Oaks by taking the kickoff and putting together a 1-2 ground-air attack that brought them down to the Menlo 7-yard line. A pass interference play set the ball up on the 7 after the hard running of Don Benedetti, Arnold Carrillo, Don Ikeda, and Elmer Valli pushed the pigskin to the Menlo 35 marker. However on the succeeding play, Bill Kinder, the Menlo linebacker, recovered a Hart fumble to end the short-lived drive.

PEDERSON HITS BOSTON

After a series of kicks, in which the Panthers came out on the short end, Hartnell fumbled again, this time in their own backyard, Menlo taking advantage of this attack of fumbleitis, which stuck to the Harts like a bad cold during the entire game, to register their initial score. It came in the form of an aerial from Bob Pederson, an excellent ball handler, field general, and passer, to Ernie Boston, shifty half-back.

Two more cases of Panther butterfingers were converted to Oak tallies in the second quarter. Both touchdowns were scored via the stratosphere, one to Merle Flattley, potential all-league end, and the final a 15-yard flip to End Bob Clark. Hartnell left the field at half time with a 21-point deficit on the scoreboard.

The Maroon and Gold began the second half in a flurry as they had in the first with the same results, surrendering the porkhide on the Menlo 10-yard line.

PANTHERS FINALLY SCORE

With the Hartnell defense digging in, the Panthers took over the ball on the Oak 40 and drove the distance in 10 plays to dent the score sheet for the first time in two weeks. Valli's pass to Tom Grant turned the trick.

A bad kick and two costly penalties opened the scoring column again for Menlo. They graciously accepted, Boston breaking off tackle, reversing his field and tallying for the visitors on a 20-yard jaunt.

Late in the final quarter Menlo's Jack Butler broke into the clear and rambled 45 yards until Taylor Burton stopped him with a last-ditch tackle on the Hart 10. The Panthers recovered an Oak fumble

Verne Baxter New Assistant

A new assistant to Head Coach Ab Wilson is Verne Baxter, an ex-all-around athlete from Salinas Union High School. Baxter graduated in 1947 and entered the University of Idaho on a football scholarship. He played four years at Idaho and last season was voted captain for the year. Verne has been working chiefly with the line and linebackers. He is attending Hartnell to complete his postgraduate work in physical education.

and Carl Cookson have been completing, we would like to announce that these vigorous individuals compose our cross-country track team.

Dyer is remembered for his endurance running here at Hartnell last season, consistently winning and always placing in the mile and two-mile events. Cookson and Alioto are Salinas high track graduates. Cookson won the C.C.A.L. mile with the good time of 4:41. As of yet Coach Ed Adams has not found any school that is willing to meet this trio of distance runners, but the boys are set when the time comes.

HOLLYWOOD HARDWOOD

ERS: Basketball fans are in store for a pleasant and bright surprise this season. The uniforms for the casaba squad will be something new and definitely unequalled by opposing teams. Speaking of brightness, the squad is shaping up now, and they should prove to be a talented group. Lacking in height, speed will be the important factor of the Panther five's attack.

CROSS COUNTRY: To those who have been wondering why the excessive roadwork that Hartnell track men, Ray Dyer, Bob Alioto, ble on the next play.

Grant's goal-line kick was blocked by Jerry Tinney, Menlo guard. The pigskin bounced out of the end zone for an automatic safety.

The game was roughly played, with 165 yards in total assessed against the two clubs; Hartnell accounted for 105 of them.

Winless Harts Tangle With Contra Costa East In Concord Tomorrow Eve.

Stepping into their own class of league opponents, the Panthers journey to Martinez to lock oars with the Contra Costa East Vikings. Kickoff is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. in Concord at the Mount Diablo High School field.

Entering their first year in competitive football, Contra Costa carries a 2-win 3-lost record. The Vikings have been shellacked by Grant Tech, 33-6; Vallejo, 21-0; and Napa, 18-6. They sport a rousing 44-6 victory over San Francisco State's J.V.'s and slipped past Marin J.C., 20-16, in a league encounter.

The Vikings run from a T-formation and have a good backfield in Tom Cortez, quarter; Ollie McClay, full; and Vince Morena and Salvadore Costanza, halves. Cortez, a fine ball handler and good passer, is reported to have been a high school quarterback at Crockett under Hartnell's Head Coach Elliott "Ab" Wilson.

The Vikings are primarily a running ball club although they have a fine passer in Cortez and a glue-fingered end in Jerry Annis.

Hartnell will still be searching for that initial victory, having dropped five straight. The Panther difficulties have been in their inconsistency. When the defense is on, the blocking and pass protection is slipshod or fumbling occurs. When the holes are open and the backs are running hard, the tackling is haphazard and so on down the line. If the Harts can gain some consistency, and if the team will find the spirit and desire to win, the Panthers are to be reckoned with.
